Prayer for the Week

O LORD, you have searched me and known me. You know when I sit down and when I rise up; you discern my thoughts from far away. You search out my path and my lying down, and are acquainted with all my ways. Even before a word is on my tongue, O LORD, you know it completely. You hem me in, behind and before, and lay your hand upon me. Such knowledge is too wonderful for me; it is so high that I cannot attain it. For it was you who formed my inward parts; you knit me together in my mother's womb. I praise you, for I am fearfully and wonderfully made. Psalm 139

Covenant and Renewal of Baptismal Vows

Opening Verse of Scripture -

Deuteronomy Chapter 29 verse 12 You are standing here in order to enter into a covenant with the Lord your God

Collect Prayer (Before we read we pray)

God of grace, through the mediation of your Son, you call us into a new covenant. Help us therefore to draw near with faith and join ourselves in a perpetual covenant with you, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Reading from the Law- Exodus 24: 3-11

When Moses went and told the people all the LORD's words and laws, they responded with one voice, "Everything the LORD has said we will do." Moses then wrote down everything the LORD had said. He got up early the next morning and built an altar at the foot of the mountain and set up twelve stone pillars representing the twelve tribes of Israel. Then he sent young Israelite men, and they offered burnt offerings and sacrificed young bulls as fellowship offerings to the LORD. Moses took half of the blood and put it in bowls, and the other half he splashed against the altar. Then he took the Book of the Covenant and read it to the people. They responded, "We will do everything the LORD has said; we will obey." Moses then took the blood, sprinkled it on the people and said, "This is the blood of the covenant that the LORD has made with you in accordance with all these words." Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and the seventy elders of Israel went up and saw the God of Israel. Under his feet was something like a pavement made of lapis lazuli, as bright blue as the sky. But God did not raise his hand against these leaders of the Israelites; they saw God, and they ate and drank

(This is the Word of the Lord All: Thanks be to God)

A Reading from the Prophets - Jeremiah 31: 31-33

"The days are coming," declares the LORD, "when I will make a new covenant with the people of Israel and with the people of Judah. It will not be like the covenant I made with their ancestors when I took them by the hand to lead them out of Egypt, because they broke my covenant, though I was a husband to them, declares the LORD. "This is the covenant I will make with the people of Israel after that time," declares the LORD. "I will put my law in their minds and write it on their hearts. I will be their God, and they will be my people.

A Reading from the Epistles—Romans 12: 1-2

Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship. Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will

A Reading from the Gospels - Mark 14: 22-25

While they were eating, Jesus took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and gave it to his disciples, saying, "Take it; this is my body." Then he took a cup, and when he had given thanks, he gave it to them, and they all drank from it. "This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many," he said to them. "Truly I tell you, I will not drink again from the fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

(This is the Gospel of Christ All: Praise to Christ our Lord)

Post Communion Prayer Lord of all time and eternity, you opened the heavens and revealed yourself as Father in the baptism of Jesus your beloved Son: by the power of your Spirit complete the heavenly work of our rebirth through the waters of the new creation through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Commentary

Did you make any New Year resolutions, or were you just too busy even to think about it? Most peoples' resolutions seem to be about improving their bodies, things like cutting down on alcohol, stopping smoking. The magazines are full of diet articles. The car parks at the gyms are overcrowded, the streets are littered full of breathless people running for the first time in twenty years. It is "new year, new you" time. Every now and again it is helpful for us to stop and take stock of every aspect of our lives and I suppose that January the time of new beginnings, is as good as any other. Wesley, who was an astute judge of human nature, recognised that a regular spiritual health check was vital to the well-being of every member of the church. Accordingly he established an annual service of renewal of baptismal vows and Christian promises. The theme which underpinned Wesley's theological formulation of the service was the kind of relationship that the new Covenant implies between God and his people.

At one stage Wesley envisaged that the Covenant promise would develop the idea of a marriage between God and his people. It is a very ancient idea. As we heard in the Old Testament reading today, Jeremiah spoke of God as being "as a husband" to his chosen people. It was an idea which John Wesley found deeply appealing, setting up a model of a relationship which is at once intimate, responsible and permanent. But because it is a Covenant, a contract between God and humanity, it implies that there is responsibility on both sides. Humanity must acknowledge its need of God, obedience to his Law and God will not forsake his people. Wesley developed the ideas in Paul's letter to the Ephesians 5.21-33) in which the idea of Christ being wedded to the Church is intertwined with exhortations to married couples. Christ is mystically wedded to us, both as a community and as individuals, a bond which is indissoluble, constant and faithful. With this theme of God as the husband, Wesley looked to the Marriage Service in the Book of Common Prayer for inspiration. In this early version the person making the Covenant was to take Jesus as "my Head and Husband, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, for all times and conditions, to love, honour and obey thee before all others, and this to the death". This version was dropped in favour of the one we all know and love. But it is worth exploring the analogy of marriage (to a limited extent) with our relationship with God. In retrospect we can see why Wesley dropped the theme because it was too much intertwined with problems: men would have to vow to take Christ as their husband which would have dented their male pride; women would have felt that Christ was identified with a state in which they were less equal than men. Marriage then as now was a problematic institution and Wesley was wise to move away from it as the foundation for the Covenant service. But there are some aspects of the idea that the relationship between God and humanity is a marriage are worth considering. Wesley retained the central idea of the Covenant Service which was that our relationship with God is evolving, changing and developing. As in a close relationship with another person, changes in environment, circumstances or experience cause us to change. As we change we move to a slightly different place in our relationship with God. Wesley believed that God's grace and love constantly prompts and seeks to transform us, and chooses that the relationship should be a dynamic and changing one. The yearly renewal of Baptismal vows and renewing of the Covenant is an opportunity for appraisal of self and the relationship with God. This morning we will take a chance to reflect, how have I changed in my thinking about God, in my worshipping of God? Have I moved further from God? Do I feel closer to Him most of the time? Where would I like to stand with God?

In earlier times we might have been asked to publicly account for any "backsliding" that might have gone on in the last year. But this is not a phrase that we now hear and I am sure it would infringe peoples' privacy to ask them intrusive questions. But today is an occasion on which we can interrogate ourselves, be fearless in challenging ourselves and resolve to do better.

It was part of Wesley's design that we should make our Covenant at a service when there was a celebration of the Lord's Supper, so that honesty and renewal was set in the context of the act of Christ's loving sacrifice of himself for us, symbolised in the sacrament. When we reach out to God, in the covenant or in any other way, the loving response is immediate and all encompassing. So we pray that in this New Year we may find a deeper value for God's love and reflect it out into the world. Amen

Meditation

I am no longer my own but yours. Put me to what you will, rank me with whom you will; put me to doing, put me to suffering; let me be employed for you or laid aside for you, exalted for you or brought low for you; let me be full, let me be empty, let me have all things, let me have nothing; I freely and wholeheartedly yield all things to your pleasure and disposal. Glorious and blessed God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, you are mine and I am yours. So be it. Let this covenant now made on earth be fulfilled in heaven. Amen.

I am no longer my own but yours. The first line is about letting go of control and acknowledging God's power over our lives. What that really means in practical terms is explored in the next sentence.

Put me to what you will, rank me with whom you will, these lines remind us of one of the preoccupations of the eighteenth century, with social rank, mixing in the right society. In our age we have other obsessions, more to do with wealth than class. But for Wesley's age, loss of rank was truly terrifying, and the willingness to be placed in the wrong order of society was a brave, heroic self-sacrifice.

Put me to doing, put me to suffering; let me be employed for you or laid aside for you. These lines further submit to God's will in how and where we serve him. It acknowledges the possibility that God might seem not to want our service! Somebody with a mental or physical illness may find these words very helpful, that inactivity might as much a part of God's plan as activity. God might just desire our willingness to be patient and wait upon Him.

Let me be exalted for you or brought low for you these few sparse words are rich in content, hinting at the whole issue of success and suggesting that they are not of any importance, that it is for God to decide what constitutes success not the admiration of the world. Obsessed as we all are by self-esteem and seeming in control, this phrase cuts us down to size.

Let me be full, let me be empty, let me have all things, let me have nothing These words are very clever because they could just be about having possessions, or life's blessings, they could also be about health, spiritual and mental. The last lines in this section of the passage pack the decisive punch

I freely and wholeheartedly yield all things to your pleasure and disposal. It marks a total giving over of self into God's hands, to be used or not as He chooses. It takes incredible courage to acknowledge that God has the power over us and courage to offer ourselves, not just as and when we feel like it, but as God requires. The final section is a kind of drawing together, reminding one almost of a marriage service, an exchange of selves.

Glorious and blessed God, Father, Son and Holy Spirit, you are mine and I am yours. So be it. Let this covenant now made on earth be fulfilled in heaven. Amen. We don't just give in this service we also receive. We gain, in exchange for our self-giving, the presence of God. We gain far more than we are giving. The great conundrum of self-giving is that we gamble ourselves and always win. But giving over of power takes courage. In the words we say collectively, we promise again to make the leap of faith and to give ourselves without knowing the outcome, what it will mean, where it might take us. But we have our tradition, the experience of those who have gone before us, to encourage us to step out into the future.

Prayers for Sunday and the week ahead

For me, prayer is a surge of the heart; it is a simple look turned toward heaven, it is a cry of recognition and of love, embracing both trial and joy. Thérèse of Lisieux 1873-1897

God of the Covenant, I place my life in your hands – for it to be yours to direct and not mine. May you decide what I should do and with whom I should do it; May you guide when I should be active and when I should rest; May you sustain me when I am well and when I suffer; May you be reflected in me when I am praised and when I am challenged; May I give thanks to you when I enjoy abundance, and when I know what it is to go without; May my whole life be given in service of your love and salvation, use all that I have and all that I am for your purposes; And may I always remember that you, O God, and I belong to each other. This is my commitment - I stand by it. And I ask that you, Jesus, bear witness to it. Amen. A translation of the traditional Methodist Covenant Prayer by John van de Laar

A Concert to Celebrate the new organ at St Mark's Church Sunday February 12 at 6.30pm
From Clive Simmonds. I have asked two friends of mine to join me on Sunday, 12 February 2012 at 6.30pm for a concert to celebrate the arrival of our new organ at St Mark's. They are both professional musicians and singers and they live in the Scottish lowlands in almost the highest village in Scotland. Stewart Kempster is a bass who sings both solo and chorus work professionally in a wide range of venues. He has sung in a number of Covent Garden productions and is frequently involved as soloist in oratorios and a wide range of other solo performances both in this country and abroad. His wife, Taylor Wilson (Tracey to her friends) is a mezzo-soprano and has, for many years been involved in Scottish Opera. She performs regularly as soloist in a wide range of different styles – from cabaret and jazz to many varied classical styles - in many different countries. She is also often involved in Scottish Opera's Educational projects taking suitable productions into schools. We plan to share a time together at St Mark's of very varied music - songs from many styles, plus a few organ lollipops (Bach – Toccata and Fugue in D Minor and Widor's Toccata) and a couple of favourite hymns, so that there is plenty for all to enjoy. Please book the date in your diary and bring others with you who might appreciate the occasion.

St Albans Woodland Burial Ground We were delighted to hear last week that our application for planning permission has been approved. This allows us to extend our woodland burial ground by a further 10 acres. This is not part of a plan to bury lots more people, but rather allows us to set aside land and protect it by consecration from any alternative use. The larger woodland allows us more opportunities to think about sustainability, bio-diversity and woodland management. The next Open Day is on Saturday May 12, worth putting in the diary now .

Lunch Club - Please note that Lunch Club will be cancelled at Putnoe on Wednesday 1 February

Hymn for Sunday

- 1 No longer mine Lord, but yours
what e'er the fight Lord, your cause,
let me have all things, let me have naught,
take every word Lord, and every thought,
I gladly yield to your command,
no longer mine, no longer mine but yours.
- 2 No longer mine Lord, but yours
to do with me as you desire.
To be exalted or laid aside,
take vain ambition and selfish pride.
Let me be humbled, you glorified,
no longer mine, no longer mine but yours.
- 3 No longer mine Lord, but yours
the sovereign Lord who we adore.
We bow before you, our glorious King,
our very lives Lord, we freely bring.
A covenant human and divine,
no longer mine, no longer mine but yours.

Rest In Peace

On the Sunday following a funeral service we remember in church those who have died. We light a candle to symbolise the light of Christ which eternally shines and brings hope. If you would like a person remembered in our service when the candle is lit, perhaps on an anniversary or birthday, please inform the ministers, or telephone the church office.

May the souls of all the faithful departed through the mercy of God, rest in peace and rise in glory. Amen.'
