Prayer for Remembrance Sunday

We remember in your presence all those who have died in war and those who still live with the pain of losing someone they love.

We remember people who, today, live in fear of their lives and those who fear the knock on the door or the telephone call that heralds bad news.

We remember politicians and others who hold positions of power and influence and whose decisions can lead to other people's life or death.

We commit ourselves not only to pray, but to seek and make peace in our relationships, in our communities, and in our world. Amen

We will remember them

Remembrance Sunday

Opening Verses of Scripture John Chapter 5:13
Jesus said, There is no greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends.

Collect Prayer for the Day

Almighty Father, whose will is to restore all things in your beloved Son, the king of all: govern the hearts and minds of those in authority, and bring the families of the nations, divided and torn apart by the ravages of sin, to be subject to His just and gentle rule; who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and forever. Amen

First Bible Reading Micah 4: 1-5

In the last days the mountain of the LORD's temple will be established as chief among the mountains; it will be raised above the hills, and peoples will stream to it. Many nations will come and say, "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob. He will teach us his ways, so that we may walk in his paths." The law will go out from Zion, the word of the LORD from Jerusalem. He will judge between many peoples and will settle disputes for strong nations far and wide. They will beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation will not take up sword against nation, nor will they train for war anymore. Every man will sit under his own vine and under his own fig tree, and no one will make them afraid, for the LORD Almighty has spoken. All the nations may walk in the name of their gods; we will walk in the name of the LORD

(Reader: This is the word of the Lord - All: Thanks be to God)

Second Reading- Romans 8: 31-end

What, then, shall we say in response to this? If God is for us, who can be against us? He who did not spare his own Son, but gave him up for us all—how will he not also, along with him, graciously give us all things? Who will bring any charge against those whom God has chosen? It is God who justifies. Who is he that condemns? Christ Jesus, who died—more than that, who was raised to life—is at the right hand of God and is also interceding for us. Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall trouble or hardship or persecution or famine or nakedness or danger or sword? As it is written: "For your sake we face death all day long; we are considered as sheep to be slaughtered." "No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. For I am convinced that neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord..

(Reader: This is the word of the Lord - All: Thanks be to God)

Gospel Reading—1 Corinthians 15: 50 –end

I declare to you, brothers, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. Listen, I tell you a mystery: We will not all sleep, but we will all be changed— in a flash, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, the dead will be raised imperishable, and we will be changed. For the perishable must clothe itself with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality. When the perishable has been clothed with the imperishable, and the mortal with immortality, then the saying that is written will come true: "Death has been swallowed up in victory." "Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?" The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. But thanks be to God! He gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, my dear brothers, stand firm. Let nothing move you. Always give yourselves fully to the work of the Lord, because you know that your labour in the Lord is not in vain

(Reader: This is the word of the Lord - All: Thanks be to God)

God of peace, whose Son Jesus Christ proclaimed the kingdom and restored the broken to wholeness of life: look with compassion on the anguish of the world, and by your healing power make whole both people and nations; through our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen

Remembrance Sunday Meditation Some of the bloodiest fighting of World War One took place in the Flanders and Picardy regions of Belgium and Northern France. The poppy was the only thing which grew in the aftermath of the complete devastation. McCrae, a doctor serving there with the Canadian Armed Forces, deeply inspired and moved by what he saw, wrote these verses:

In Flanders' Fields John McCrae, 1915

In Flanders' fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place: and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders' fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high,
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders' Fields.

Pagan Aston, 7, places a cross in memory of her father, Corporal Russell Aston

On the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month in 1918, the First World War ended. Civilians wanted to remember the people who had given their lives for peace and freedom. An American War Secretary, Moina Michael, inspired by John McCrae's poem, began selling poppies to friends to raise money for the ex-Service community. And so the tradition began.

A Hymn for Sunday

I vow to thee, my country—all earthly things above—
Entire and whole and perfect, the service of my love;
The love that asks no question, the love that stands the test,
That lays upon the altar the dearest and the best;
The love that never falters, the love that pays the price,
The love that makes undaunted the final sacrifice.

And there's another country, I've heard of long ago—
Most dear to them that love her, most great to them that know;
We may not count her armies, we may not see her King;
Her fortress is a faithful heart, her pride is suffering;
And soul by soul and silently her shining bounds increase,
And her ways are ways of gentleness, and all her paths are peace.

Working with God for Peace

Micah knew all about war. He was a prophet around 860 – 750 BC in the Southern Kingdom of Judah. He was contemporary with Amos and Hosea in the Northern Kingdom of Israel and with Isaiah in Jerusalem in the Southern Kingdom. His message and vision (Micah 1 v 1) is for the two capital cities of these Kingdoms, Samaria and Jerusalem. For Micah, Jerusalem had become infected with the same sins and apathy of Samaria and Israel, exploiting the helpless, dishonesty in business and a religion which rather than making any real difference merely went through the ritualistic motions. God's judgement must therefore fall on the two cities in order for there to be restoration and redemption. But after that there can be a glorious future, where Jerusalem will become the spiritual and religious centre of the world and in Bethlehem there will be born a greater David who will rule over all people. In the first chapter of his book, Micah pictures an invading army, destroying all in its path and approaching the gates of Jerusalem. Micah was probably describing events from first hand experience, on 722 BC the Assyrians destroyed Samaria (in the North) and 20 years later attacked Jerusalem, only for the city to escape by a miracle. Micah almost certainly lived through both of these events and was deeply affected by them. In chapter 2 Micah then goes on to decry the fallacy of man made plans compared to the wisdom of God and His ways and in chapter 3 rebukes the leaders and prophets who have led the people into this situation before speaking in chapter 4 of the new hope that there will be when restoration and God's rule comes and God Himself will judge the disputes between strong nations far and wide. It is then, and only then, will the people beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Having witnessed the horrors of war Micah is clear that true peace can only come to the world when God's rule reigns supreme. In a world where many deeply desire peace we too need to remember that it is God alone who can bring true peace. God alone who is the author of peace. God alone who can bring true justice. Micah then goes on to explain that our role in this new world order is 'to act justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with your God'. We are to work hand in hand with God to bring about the peace which he describes. As the world desires peace we do well to remember that true peace can only come when we do work hand in hand with God rather than try to engineer or create peace purely through diplomatic or political means. Politics and diplomacy can be an important supporting element for peace, as some would argue force is too, but true peace can only come when God is at the centre of all our efforts. Increasingly as many wars are now fought on so called religious rather than political grounds this is confusing for those with no religious belief and they have difficulty in understanding the fundamental role of God in world peace. Without God and His creation walking hand in hand there can be no ultimate and everlasting peace, justice or freedom.

Those we remember today were laying down their lives for the cause of peace, justice and freedom, often through the call of duty to a country or nation. They gave up their freedom so that others could have theirs. They fought injustice so that justice could ultimately triumph. We remember their sacrifice from the freedom that their efforts and commitment bought. They gave up their lives so that others could live in the freedom for which they fought. We remember them with gratitude for what they achieved and what their sacrifice enabled. With the current military engagements in Iraq and Afghanistan we are reminded daily that there is a heavy toll of human life in war. Many more are injured and impacted by the physical and mental damage war brings. Modern warfare is at the same time increasingly technological and increasingly fragmented, increasingly complex and increasingly diffuse in its aims and outcomes, increasingly widespread yet increasingly local and it must seem to many, as it seemed to Micah, that there is an army approaching their gates. We give thanks today for those who sacrificed so much, and for those who continue to do so day in and day out, in the cause of peace and freedom. We remember too that we will only turn our weapons of war into tools for peace when God is at the very centre of our lives and society and we are content to walk humbly with our God in obedience to Him. Sam Cappleman

Prayers for Sunday and the Week Ahead

We thank you, Lord, for all those who have died for their nation. Almighty God, our heavenly Father, in whose hands are the living and the dead: we give you thanks for all your servants who have laid down their lives in the service of their country. Grant to them your mercy, and the light of your presence, that the good work you have begun in them may be perfected; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

Most gracious God and Father, in whose will is our peace: turn our hearts and the hearts of all people to yourself, that by the power of your spirit, the peace which is founded on righteousness may be established throughout the world; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

3 December Christmas According to Luke

17 December Christmas According to Matthew

Traditionally the symbols attributed to the Gospel writers are Matthew a winged man, Mark a lion, Luke an Ox and John an Eagle. The image attributed to Matthew is a divine man. His Gospel is concerned to show the genealogy of Jesus from Abraham to the King David (14 generations) and from David to the deportation into Babylon (14 generations) and from the exile in Babylon to the Messiah a further 14 generations. Matthew is seen as the Gospel of Christ's humanity and His humbleness and humility is highlighted throughout the book.

The image attributed to Luke is that of a winged ox. A calf or indeed oxen were used in sacrifices in the Temple. The opening of Luke's Gospel begins with the announcement of the birth of John the Baptist to his father Zechariah a priest in the Temple who was offering sacrifice there. The winged ox is seen as a reminder of the priestly character of Jesus and of his sacrificial death for the sins of all mankind.

From Rev Martin Hounsfield I am writing to you to let you know that I have today met with Jacqueline to discuss the matter of her health and her planned return to circuit ministry. She has recently seen her GP who has expressed concerns about her scheduled return on 16th November. Jacqueline shared this information with the Circuit Leadership Team at its meeting yesterday, where she stated her hope of coming back on a part-time basis. By this she envisaged taking up her preaching engagements as outlined on the Preaching Plan, including the Christmas services.

However, the Circuit Leadership Team was adamant that her health should not be jeopardised by a premature return to work. They have therefore directed Jacqueline that she should follow the medical advice of her GP. This she has, with some reluctance, agreed to do.

I am now re-working the Preaching Plan and her other commitments. I hope soon to be making contact with Senior Church Stewards in her section advising them of the appropriate measures I have taken. Needless to add, please remember both Jacqueline and Barry in your prayers and continue to support them as you are able. Yours in Christ, Martin Hounsfield

Why is this important?

After 30+ years of uncertainty, reputable scientists and world leaders now agree that man-made Climate Change is a proven fact. The World Health Organisation claims that annually 150,000 people in the poorest countries die because of it. Increasingly lavish use of fossil fuel energy and heat is the cause. Man-made climate change can be prevented from getting worse, but it requires big reductions in greenhouse gas emissions world-wide in the next ten years, and even bigger changes before 2050. How is this to be done?

The UK government has led the way with a Climate Change Act which promises to cut UK emissions by 80 % by 2050. Other countries need to agree similar promises at the UN Climate Change Conference in Copenhagen this December. Sceptics argue that the speed of change in history is slow and the changes required are unlikely to be made before 2050. But hope replies, "Consider the many unforeseen changes that have successfully occurred in our lifetimes." Concerned people throughout the country, of all political parties and faiths, are beginning to rally to the challenge. It is hoped that this public meeting will gather a wide range of interest groups together.

Mission Update

Thank you to all who took an envelope with them last Sunday for this year's mission project in support of the King's Arm project. Thank you too for those of you who have already returned them! If you were away last week or did not pick up an envelope with details how to support the project. and would like to do so, please pick one up from the back of church today.

Rest In Peace

On the Sunday following a funeral service we remember in church those who have died. We light a candle to symbolise the light of Christ which eternally shines and brings hope. If you would like a person remembered in our service when the candle is lit, perhaps on an anniversary or birthday, please inform the ministers, or telephone the church office.
